Academic Standards Committee Proposals for the 3/6/2019 Senate Agenda

Draft language for the use of electronic communication devices in the classroom.

"Personal Electronics, such as cellular phones and tablets, play an important role in the communications necessary in our contemporary world. As these devices have the potential to be used in ways contrary to academic standards and may facilitate academic dishonesty, the faculty member may take steps to limit the use of these devices in the classroom and their courses. If a faculty member has an electronic device policy, that policy must be stated in the syllabus. At the same time, personal communications devices are necessary as a safety tool in time of emergency. The faculty Member cannot bar the student from having these devices in their possession in the classroom."

Rationale: Students need these personal communications in order to receive sometimes critical information during the day, in the classroom and on the move. This is evidenced by the implementation of the YSU text messaging system, and recent events proved the value of such communications.

Draft Language of the "Common Syllabus Policy"

"Faculty syllabi, either distributed in hard copy or digitally, must contain detailed academic information governing course specific classroom policies, as outline in Article 28.3 of the OEA agreement. In the interest of specific academic clarity, reference to other important information, but not strictly academic information, the student should be referred to the Academic Senate's Common syllabus page."

Rationale: Justification of keeping the common syllabus material at one location on the Senate Website is for accuracy of information that is subject to revisions at any time. It makes such revisions, that are deemed necessary, easier to implement, by revision of this site alone. By doing this is way, policy can be revised in a way that does not require duplication of the same revisions hundreds if not thousands of times across campus.

Why is LMS Adoption essential to Student Success?

• According to the Educause Center for Analysis and Research:
  – Higher numbers of students in public institutions work over 30 hours per week
  – Grade and syllabus posting in the LMS have been found to enhance academic performance
  – Enhanced academic performance equates to higher student engagement, retention and overall success

Policy specifics

Academic department chairs, in consultation with department faculty, shall provide to the dean a recommended plan for adopting the identified technologies within a timeframe that permits two (2) semesters for all full-time faculty teaching within the department to become familiar with and use the technology at the basic level (or as determined through OEA negotiations). An accelerated time-frame may be implemented for part-time faculty. Identified technologies include:

Learning Management System (i.e., the standard, core LMS supported by YSU Information Technology Services) at the basic level or beyond including:

- Syllabus published in the LMS for each course within the first week of the semester
- Grades entered in the LMS twenty-four hours prior to the withdrawal deadline and the final course grade for each semester

Policy specifics

The dean will review and approve in writing the chairperson's recommended plan for faculty technology adoption. Prior to approval, the dean may return proposed adoption plans for modification and/or clarification. Once approved, the dean will forward departmental adoption recommendations to the office of academic affairs. The provost may return departmental recommendations to the dean for modification and/or clarification.

Information Technology Services (ITS) will develop and implement processes such that faculty will not be required to double enter the same data in multiple systems (e.g., no grade Banner grade entry once Blackboard adopted).

An LMS training program and materials will be provided to assist in the adoptions of basic level LMS functionality.
Next Steps

• YSU ITS & BlackBoard Support Team will create a BlackBoard shell for every course for Fall 2019.
• Contact Bill Swann or Joe Alberti to schedule time to customize your course shell.
• A schedule of BlackBoard classes will be coming out starting in August.
• Upon Board of Trustees approval, ITS will begin the integration between BlackBoard and Banner for grades.
